TOLEDO POWER STRIKE ENDED

Union Workers Halt Walkout After 237 to 22 Vote, Pressure Believed Used

NEGOTIATIONS TO START

Want 20 Per Cent Increase in Wages, Will Get Paid for Day They Were Off

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO O June 6—A crew of trouble shooters and generator operators went to work in the power plant of the Toledo Edison Co today ending a strike which for a while threatened to shut off electric power over an area of 300 square miles in northwestern Ohio

Union electrical workers who called the strike yesterday morning called it off early today pending negotiations on their demand for a 20 per cent wage increase

The negotiations will start in New York probably Monday with officials of the Henry L Doherty Co parent company of Toledo Edison

Pressure Caused Halt

The swift termination of the strike was attributed to pressure from many sources by Oliver Myers business agent of the local Electrical Workers union an American Federation of Labor affiliate

Myers mentioned Presidential pressure from Washington department of labor pressure Toledo Chamber of Commerce pressure American Federation of Labor pressure newspaper pressure and company pressure

The union workers voted 237 to 22 to end the strike after Secretary of Labor Perkins had requested union leaders to maintain essential service Myers said he was pleased with the vote

Several factories in Toledo a heavy industrial center had partially shut down when the strike was called off although at no time during the strike was electric power service interrupted

Feeder Lines Used

Officials of Toledo Edison were able to bring enough current into the city over feeder lines to maintain the normal flow Foremen remained in the plant firing the boilers

The threat was real enough however to cause many firms to investigate the means of performing by hand some of the functions now controlled by an electric switch button Approximately 400 000 persons were threatened with loss of current in Ohio Small areas in eastern Indiana and southern Michigan also would have been affected

City officials said that approximately 30 000 factory workers would have been affected in Toledo

C L Proctor vice president and general manager of Toledo Edison pleased by the temporary settlement announced that employes would receive regular pay for the day of the strike

2ND RANSOM BILL UNCOVERED

Money Found in Spokane Wash Postoffice Suspect Held for Questioning

MAN QUIZZED IN HOTEL

Kidnaped Youth Taken on Trip Presumably in Search of Hideout

(Copyright 1935 by The Associated Press)

TACOMA Wash June 6—Discovery of a second bank note used in the ransoming of George Weyerhaeuser and the reported detention of a man for questioning spurred authorities today on the trail of the nine year old boy's kidnapers

Usually reliable sources reported a man at a Seattle hotel had been detained for questioning His identity was not disclosed and department of justice agents here followed their customary practice of refusing comment

Found in Postoffice

The second ransom bill—one of the 20 000 paid to the abductors last week—was discovered in the Spokane Wash postoffice

Miss Vernon Beavers Spokane money order clerk received the second bill between 9 a m and 1 p m Tuesday Federal authorities were notified at Portland Several flew to Spokane and were on the job within three and a half hours said Postmaster W W Simpson

They attempted to discover who had tendered it but apparently were unsuccessful

A Seattle newspaper reporter watched two department of justice agents who had been in Tacoma working on the Weyerhaeuser case enter the Seattle hotel room of one man mentioned in the case

The agents he said were closeted in the room with the man for an hour and then left by a side exit The man had not returned to his hotel early today There was no indication of where he was being held or whether he had been released

Take Boy on Trip

Federal agents here yesterday took the Weyerhaeuser boy on a sudden motor trip presumably in search of a gang hideout near Issaquah where he was released for $200 000 Saturday

The authorities evidently expected an early climax to the case and believe the kidnapers are Pacific northwest men perhaps from Tacoma and Seattle

They refused to comment on the

FERTILE FARMS HIT BY FLOODS

Raging Torrents Burst Levees and Dikes in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

FARMERS FORCED TO FLEE

Residents of Town Moved Out as Surging Waters Draw Nearer.

By The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY June 6 — The foaming flood waters of the Kaw and Missouri rivers spread out over thousands of acres of fertile farm land today after breaking through dikes and levees

The crest of the flood in the Kaw river was about 40 miles west of here early today while the main force of the Missouri was being exerted against protective barriers from Hermann to St Charles Mo

Carrying flood waters from Colorado Nebraska and Kansas the Kaw broke through a levee north of Lawrence Kas last night sent a torrent onto hundreds of acres of rich bottom land and threatened to inundate North Lawrence Most of the residents of the town had been moved from their homes

The break ended the efforts of 600 men to save the barrier Five CCC men Bill Adams a farmer and Capt H S Howes were working on the levee trying to stop a small break when they found the sand bags rising under them

Run for it boys shouted Capt. Howes and all dashed away to warn other workers Within a short time the river was pouring through a 15 foot gap

In the rest of the valley from Lawrence to the Kaw's mouth here farmers were prepared for flood and workers struggled to erect barriers and strengthen permanent ones

More than 60 000 acres of land were reported under water east of Hermann Mo as the Big Muddy defeated the efforts of workers to hold it within levees

Capt. B M Harloe district engineer made an airplane flight over the area yesterday and reported that the river was running from bluff to bluff in a flood five miles wide He estimated that 75 per cent of the cultivated land in the area was under water

LEADERS AGREE TO EXTEND NRA IN MILD FORM

Will Be Continued Minus Presidential Power to Enforce Agreements

EXTENSION TO APRIL 1936

Terms Reached at Meeting of House Senate and Administration Chiefs

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 6 — A resolution extending a skeleton NRA organization until April 1 1936 but repealing all presidential power to prescribe approve and enforce codes of fair competition was agreed to today by house senate and administration leaders

Meanwhile a study of the possibility of governing labor conditions through interstate compacts bolstered by federal cooperation was initiated by President Roosevelt

The President made known his intention in reply to resolutions adopted by the joint commission on interstate compacts in session here

Higher Tax Mentioned

The secret meeting of senate house and administration representatives was held after some congressional spokesmen had said the White House was tentatively considering new and high taxes on inheritances and gifts as a part of the future NRA program

In a letter to Henry Parkman Jr Massachusetts state senator President Roosevelt said

I am glad to receive the memoranda and resolutions that you have so kindly sent me from the interstate conference on labor compacts

Says Work Valuable

I have for some time followed with great interest the work which the conference has been doing There is no doubt that continued efforts in every state to improve and safeguard labor standards is of definite value

I am directing that a study be made of the proposals made in your resolutions and that I shall be kept in touch with any further work on the conference

Very sincerely yours
Franklin D Roosevelt "

The inheritance and gift taxes leaders explained would be an attempt to continue and broaden NRA's basic social aims It would seek leaders declared to increase mass purchasing power through redistribution of money

Decision Not Complete

It was emphasized that the idea still was in a nebulous stage

While the house ways and means committee was called together today to work on the stopgap program to continue the NRA organization in skeleton form a final decision apparently had not been made as to whether any further and more permanent NRA legislation will be sought at this session of congress

Sen Robinson of Arkansas the Democratic leader predicted that there would be none but his statement was qualified by an assertion that conditions now unforeseen might make some further step necessary

Another development was an

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 6 — More than 200 members of the iron and steel industry representing 91 per cent of ingot and 90 per cent finishing capacity individually and voluntarily today decided to continue the practices under which the industry operated under the NRA code

This included the maintenance of present rates of pay maximum hours of labor and standards of fair competition

The leaders also pledged themselves to continue to protect employes rights of collective bargaining

Prices were not discussed because third quarter quotations have already been filed Eugene G Grace president of the Institute said

NEW DEAL BOOSTS BILL TO BOLSTER AAA SETUP

Acts to Ban Suits to Recover Amounts Already Paid by Processors of Farm Products.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON June 6 — The new deal today sought quick passage of legislation designed to prop up the agriculture adjustment administration in the event it suffers a supreme court setback

Congress went to work immediately on a bill proposed by Secretary Wallace It contained a provision that if the supreme court should decide the processing taxes levied under the present AAA law were unconstitutional, processors of farm products could not file suit to recover $624 430,579 already paid In case the court should object to the power which congress has given Wallace to fix the tax rates the new legislation would provide direct authority for continuing the levies at their present amounts until Dec 31 1935

To Bolster Market Setup

The administration bill sought also to strengthen the AAA's right to carry out marketing agreements concerning milk fruits and vegetables It did not go so far in this respect as other legislation proposed prior to the killing of NRA codes, however Instead of licenses to enforce the agreements, it proposed "orders."

Face and Back a Mass of Pimples. Cuticura Quickly Cleared Skin.

"My face and back also my arms were nothing more than a mass of pimples due to some external cause. Some of the pimples were in blotches which left my face disfigured. They itched considerably and burned and I lost sleep night after night. My clothing rubbed the pimples and caused a great deal of pain.

I saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using I was amazed at the improvement in my skin so I bought more and in no time at all my skin was clear of the irritation." (Signed) Miss Barbara Currey, 1105 West Jefferson St Springfield Ohio

ployment in their home communities increases

Summary of Talks

A summary of the talks follows

Mr Kempton, president of the state league, asserted the Mt Vernon building and loan company with which he is associated has decided to become a federal institution instead of remaining a state company

"It's our way," he said, "of getting out of the desert of suspicion and mistrust in which all companies like ours have been in the last five years. It's our way of finding a new appeal to meet changed conditions."

He asserted there is nothing wrong fundamentally with the way Ohio building and loan companies have been operated in the past but during the last five years of difficult times a new generation has been coming on and these new potential customers as well as the old ones who have drifted away can be attracted only by the new appeal. He said federalization might not suit the needs of some companies. Federalization, it was explained, insures accounts up to $5,000 and increases the company's resources through its change to a federal institution

Mr Tobin, publicity director of the state league, asserted there has been no stampede in Ohio toward federalization of loan companies. Of 707 in Ohio he estimated about 50 either are eligible or interested in federalization and of the latter number about 20 have become federal associations to date

He expressed an opinion that insurance of accounts through a proposed state setup or other means would have virtually the same effect as federalization adding that in his opinion the public was interested in federalization of a company principally because of the insurance feature of the federal associations

Mr Tobin declared most building and loan companies are more liquid now than before 1929 but companies have failed to acquaint the public with this fact—one that he predicted would be a long step toward increasing public confidence in the institutions

Time To Advertise

For five years he continued building and loan companies have made no effort to stay in the public eye—they have slashed their advertising to almost nothing and have been sitting tight instead of trying to sell themselves to the public. This year he declared is the time to start getting back into the picture

Mr Posell, associate director of the Federal Housing administration in Ohio, stated that the government's federal housing program in which the government insures mortgage loans for construction of homes and buildings can handle insured loans to an advantage

Any solvent building and loan company as well as banks and insurance companies can be licensed to make insured loans he said

Issuing of government insured loans he continued can help a building and loan company by improving its ability to meet withdrawal demands its ability to get new money and its ability to make loans. Insured mortgages can be converted into cash quickly either by selling them or posting them as security for loans he explained

Insurance Not Necessary

Mr Devine, secretary of the Ohio Building Association league, argued that insurance of accounts possibly is desirable but not a necessity. "Whether federalized or insured a building and loan company is still a building and loan company and the real improvement is going to come for them

Elements in Oil

[illegible] about [illegible] It was pointed out that this disease is due to a lack of vitamin [illegible] body. You may [illegible] mentioned cod liver oil as an excellent source of this vitamin.

Many readers have asked me about cod liver oil. Many refuse to [illegible] because they associate the present day product with the disagreeable flavor of that [illegible] in their childhood. [illegible] few realize the [illegible] that have taken place in the manufacture of cod liver oil. [illegible] years ago children were [illegible] to take cod liver oil [illegible] hated it because of its [illegible] taste. Today it is [illegible] the young infant [illegible].

There are many reasons for this change. [illegible] first because the [illegible] have [illegible] the [illegible] taste and smell of the [illegible] of yesterday. Now it is pure and highly concentrated. In fact, the taste may be entirely [illegible] by a favorite [illegible], which is sometimes used in the modern preparation of [illegible].

When babies are given cod liver oil from infancy they acquire a taste for it, [illegible] are quite [illegible]. But the [illegible] taking it for the first time may be [illegible] to its taste and form an instant dislike [illegible] flavored [illegible] may [illegible].

[illegible] the value of [illegible] oil in the diet of every [illegible] growing child [illegible] years [illegible] oil was taken only [illegible] spring [illegible]. But [illegible] different attitude. Within the past quarter of a century the [illegible] value of cod liver oil has [illegible] realized. In certain [illegible] it is [illegible] at all seasons.

Since this oil is exceedingly rich in vitamin D, its presence in the diet aids greatly in bringing about normal development of the bones and teeth. It enables the body to utilize certain mineral substances, such as lime and phosphorus, which build strong and sturdy bones.

Cod liver oil will prevent not only rickets but other nutritional diseases. Rickets results in weakness of the bony framework of the body, with subsequent inability to utilize lime and phosphorus. Fortunately this deficiency is overcome by taking cod liver oil and by getting an abundance of sunlight.

When a child is given cod liver oil he is furnished with elements found in or produced by sunshine. Everybody knows that sunshine is essential to proper growth and development.

There is a common belief that cod liver oil may upset the child's digestion. This is not true. It is easily digested and when given between meals does not interfere with appetite or the proper functioning of the digestive organs.

"Taking It"

Americans were subjected to physical and mental anguish as the new deal steam roller and the brain trust harrow passed over them and didn't get any sympathy from Washington. On the contrary government officials all the way from President Roosevelt down to the least of the professors capitalized on the complaints which were made. They [illegible] with more enthusiasm than tact sometimes at the tortured victims of their policies. They went further and frequently warned in advance of a new idea that yelps of protest merely would prove the yelper an old Tory, a nasty Bourbon or something just as bad.

The highly specialized art of taking it reached a new height of development during the days when a man or an institution could be withered by one scorching blast from Washington. Some men learned to keep their mouths shut and bide their time. Others incapable of remaining silent learned to take abuse without showing their dislike for it. All were assisted in their fortitude by a sneaking expectation that the worm would turn some day. They would see then if the ones who had been dishing it out could take it themselves.

What happened in this respect following the new deal's bitter disappointment over the supreme court's rejection of the recovery act is not important as far as the welfare of the United States is concerned. Still some things which aren't important can be interesting. Recorded as interesting therefore is the unimportant fact that some members of the Roosevelt administration who scorned to show mercy when it was in their power to do so were the first ones to yelp when they stubbed their toes on the supreme court's unfavorable decision.

One More Disappointment.

Babe Ruth the man seems to be discovering things about Babe Ruth the baseball hero he didn't know before. The American public is an unwilling spectator.

Babe Ruth the hero isn't a solid figure any more. Too much depends on remembrances of past glory and ball games aren't won that way. Performance counts and Babe Ruth the man knows he isn't capable any more of the performances that made him heroic.

Fortunately the discovery isn't tragic in a monetary sense. It will not create another baseball bum because years ago friendly advisers persuaded baseball's mighty slugger to prepare for the future. If his mental preparation had been as complete as his financial preparation there would not be the current distressing exhibition of a popular athlete unable to retire gracefully from activities which apparently have become essential to his happiness.

Toward Babe Ruth the hero the public has nothing but kindly feeling. Though he really isn't a hero at all but only a brilliant figure in the national sport, in other words quite de[illegible] the [illegible] great athletes occupy in this country of vast audiences and famous entertainers Babe Ruth for [illegible] years has [illegible] in the limelight. Few real heroes ever last that long.

He seems unable to step aside in such a way as to leave the hero intact while serving the best interests of the man. That isn't an uncommon failing in sports but America's hope! Babe Ruth's mel[illegible] would be able to end his career without an [illegible]. The fact that he hasn't been able to do it must be added to the important disappointments of the new deal era. But [illegible] will be able to figure out a way to blame it on President Roosevelt.

A Limit To Folly

Two hundred [illegible] Sixty cents [illegible] Two hundred [illegible] of your favorite brand [illegible] 4 cents.

No wonder [illegible] No wonder the whole [illegible] wondering whether New York's [illegible] cigaret war was a sample of what could be expected following the collapse of NRA codes.

One of the [illegible] in the war Bloomingdale's [illegible] story was circulated [illegible] advertisement "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" was the title.

Here's the smoke that got in Bloomingdale's eyes, condensed from [illegible]

The actual wholesale cost of a carton of cigarets, according to the store, is [illegible]. Under NRA, the least that could be charged for a carton was $1.[illegible] F[illegible] when the codes [illegible] Bloomingdale's [illegible] its policy of meeting every [illegible] that might [illegible].

[illegible] meant reducing [illegible] of a carton of cigarets from the [illegible] price down to as little as [illegible] It meant losing thousands [illegible] an [illegible] petty little [illegible]. It meant [illegible] the corner [illegible] was when prices [illegible] enough to start cutting [illegible].

[illegible] dealers did. There [illegible] the cigaret [illegible] get a carton at whole[illegible] an[illegible] more [illegible].

[illegible] thing [illegible] to specialty [illegible] merchants [illegible] set [illegible] their [illegible] petty [illegible] cutting [illegible] can [illegible] for [illegible] the [illegible] affairs and [illegible] again for the public [illegible] they can and can [illegible].

Overcoming Obstacles

Marion welcomes [illegible] as a notable addition to its list of musicians. There is [illegible] reason to predict that this young man of [illegible] has before him a career which will reflect credit to him. [illegible] to his home city where he is beginning his profession as a music instructor.

A count of young people who have acquired educations and a start in life over obstacles are always interesting but few command the attention that goes to [illegible] Ingle and his achievement. [illegible] although partially blind he enters upon life's activities equipped with knowledge and training of the highest order. Beyond doubt the same courage, steadfastness and ability which carried him successfully through his years of preparation will serve to win adequate reward for him in the future.

The education this young man acquired is not limited to music. While schooling himself thoroughly in that art at the same time he equipped himself for a full and useful life by obtaining a general store of knowledge as well as instruction in special subjects. His qualifications are summarized in a tribute paid him by W. [illegible] Scarberry, superintendent of the State School for the Blind. Mr. Scarberry writes: "Although laboring under a severe handicap this young man received academic, industrial and musical training which will enable him to become a self-supporting, wide awake, contributing citizen to our state."

[illegible] record of human achievement offers numerous examples of both men and women who have risen to heights of greatness and distinguished service despite formidable physical handicaps. Their story leads us to realize that possibly the way is too easy for most people. Beyond doubt the exercise of character, ability and determination required to overcome obstacles is in itself training of exceptional value. Naturally it develops powers and resources which might be only partially effective under other circumstances. Certainly it is likely to bring into full force the ability and talents which often remain wholly or partly dormant in persons who start life on smooth and unobstructed paths.

So it is altogether probable that the Marion boy is starting out with an education not limited to that which he acquired just through study and absorption of knowledge. He has in addition that development and enhancement of powers certain to result from surmounting difficulties. That is something not available through the mere study of books or lessons easily taught. It is beyond doubt the chief source and factor in all outstanding human achievements, for these invariably are the work of men and women undaunted by even the most formidable and arduous undertakings.

DEATH OF CRAWFORD

One of the most cruel and inhuman deaths in the history of Indian [illegible] took place in Wyandot county when Col. Crawford was burned at the stake in June, 1782, by the Delawares to avenge themselves for the massacre of their people at the Moravian towns on the Muskingum. The spot is in Crawford township, in the midst of a beautiful grove on the bank of the Tymochtee river.

Col. Crawford was stripped naked, his hands tied behind him and he was beaten with sticks and fists. He was then tied to a post and after a speech made by the Delaware chief, Captain Pipe, which was loudly cheered by some 100 Indians, his body was shot full of powder from his feet to his neck. His ears were cut off and a fire placed around him in a radius of six or seven yards. Squaws hurled burning coals upon his body and in a short time he had only coals of fire and hot ashes about him. After about two hours of torture he was scalped by the Indians and an old squaw then put a pot[illegible] of coals and ashes on his head. By this time he was insensible to pain and the morning sun saw nothing but his bones in the dead embers.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, June 6, 1925.

Two deaths blamed on the heat wave were recorded in Marion county. The victims were two-year-old Carl Anderson Ree[illegible] of Martel and Mrs. Ethel Irene Lucas, 36, of [illegible] street. John Hotstetter, living two miles north of Martel, was in a serious condition after being overcome by the heat while repairing a barn roof. Temperature here was 97.

Marion police were looking for the city's meanest thief, who stole a new electric sweeper from Wesley M. E. church. The sweeper had been purchased by the Ladies Aid society of the church.

J. W. Jacoby was appointed trustee in bankruptcy for the Studebaker Wulff Rubber Co. of Marion.

A group of Advance club members were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Marshall at their summer cottage at Rye Beach. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] H. Cowan, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 6—Most people out in the country have the notion that the President is the most powerful influence in it. The truth is exactly opposite. A majority of Presidents have agreed that the people are the most powerful influence. No President has dared to go further than he thought they wanted to go.

That tells the story of what has been happening on the inside lately in connection with the reformation of the new deal.

The initial steps taken by the President were only to save the skeleton of NRA. They were merely the preliminary necessary and obvious moves. The bigger ones he has hinted at were withheld because the reaction of the country had not then fully developed. At least the advisers to the President believed it had not begun to develop.

The scope of further steps will be outlined when and if it does.

Blame

There was considerable dismay in high circles because the President's strong background views expressed last Friday provoked so few telegrams and letters showing reaction. Usually his radio speeches have brought immediate national responses.

The temper of the country can be judged not only by the volume of such letters and telegrams but by the nature of them, the tone, the importance of names signed.

One official bothersomely tried to blame the press. The technique employed by the President appears to have been mutually responsible. He did not permit direct quotation. The subject is deep and involved. The full implications have not yet sunk into the public mind.

Tape

The reason you have heard little or nothing about the big new works program is because it has run into a thousand and one inner obstacles. Inevitable red tape has encircled it. Plans have had to be changed and rechanged. The experience is proving again that nothing so stupendous can be done quickly and done right.

For instance the President recently ordered heavy projects thrown out the window. This had to be done because the [illegible] found it could not afford to spend much money for materials and yet put 3,500,000 persons to work.

The result is that stacks of blue prints prepared by cities in cooperation with PWA engineers are now worthless. One midwest city spent $35,000 on preparing detailed engineering plans for a [illegible] works and similar heavy projects. These went out the window on the gust of the President's order.

Ups and Downs

The latest rechanging [illegible] Harry Hopkins to the top of the heap at relief headquarters. He has always been an advocate of heavy spending on light projects, some of which have been assailed as boondoggling. This undoubtedly means that when they once get straightened away on current perplexing preliminaries the money will begin to fly. It also means that Interior Secretary Ickes and his PWA theories of spending are again on the bottom.

Obstacles

The new deal has run into another supreme court inside the house interstate commerce subcommittees. The situation there is not being advertised widely because the administration is still [illegible] trying to straighten it out. There does not seem to be much hope.

What has happened is that two Democratic congressmen are quietly but determinedly resisting new deal pressure on the holding company bill and rail reorganization. One is Pettengill from South Bend, Ind., and the other [illegible] from Birmingham, Ala.

The new deal crowd has [illegible] to them pleaded with them and is saying all manner of [illegible] things about them [illegible] al[illegible] no effect. The [illegible] effectively smoke[illegible] be [illegible].

That is what is behind the new deal agitation [illegible] may have noticed lately favoring a change in the seniority method of selecting congressional committees. Even Vice President Garner has publicly urged something like that. The agitation probably will continue but nothing will be done about it.

Consequences

The new dealers can not ride over Messrs. Pettingill and Huddleston but is moving to get around them. That is why the holding company bill is being pressed to passage by the senate first. After passage there it will go to the house where a neat scheme has been devised to keep it out of the hands of the two bad boys. It will eventually be approved by both houses in substantially the shape in which the new deal wants it. The transportation bill however may be modified considerably as a result of the existing situation.

Notes

Washington is so crowded with government offices that the census bureau is planning to set up a headquarters in Baltimore to take charge of the new census activities. Office space is at a premium even with all the acres of new buildings recently opened.

The NRA occupied more than ten different office buildings here taking space wherever it could be obtained.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, June 6—New York [illegible] in close contact with Washington predict that Roosevelt will be in no hurry for action to offset the Supreme Court's crackdown on NRA. His remarks about the court's nullification of the federal government's power to regulate any form of economic activity except transportation is interpreted in this light.

The only move these sources look for soon is some form of legislation to protect industries which want to continue their codes from anti-trust prosecutions. The federal trade commission will undoubtedly be the agency to determine whether performance matches promise in such cases—with freedom to act in the event that it doesn't. If any NRA organization is retained at all it will be the barest of skeletons.

Otherwise they expect the President to stand by and wait for the harmful effect of NRA abandonment to sink into the public consciousness—even if it means confusion and setback. The idea is to allow popular sentiment for federal authority over industrial labor and agricultural problems to crystallize of its own accord so overwhelming is that it cannot be resisted. A constitutional amendment to this effect is likely to be a major campaign issue—perhaps THE issue—next year. It will not be introduced now, at least not under administration auspices.

Triumph

An unobtrusive citizen of New York, David Podell—is likely to be [illegible] much [illegible] the picture as a substitute for NRA is gradually developed. Mr. Podell is a big fee lawyer who had quite a lot to do with drafting the original national recovery act. Unlike some of his former colleagues on that job he [illegible] Washington—[illegible] the [illegible] for the [illegible]

Podell [illegible] National City [illegible] to recover [illegible] bank from its officers and directors. The latter were defended by John W. Davis and Joseph Proskauer—two of New York's top-hole legal lights. He lost the case as it stood but managed [illegible] the judge to appoint a [illegible] the special [illegible] of officers' bonuses. This [illegible] recommended that these [illegible] and the bonuses [illegible] to the [illegible]

If he [illegible] on this [illegible] a [illegible] Podell [illegible] a bank [illegible] alleged [illegible] themselves.

Lacking

Well-posted utility leaders claim that holding company stockholders will have nothing to worry about even if the Wheeler-Rayburn bill passes. They see an era of prosperity ahead—and with five years to turn around and increasing opportunities for investment they figure the security owners will have ample time to move their money into more promising fields if they must.

They further contend that the bill will do most damage to operating companies accustomed to working under a holding company tent. Their point is that this system has developed a type of operating company official on a par with railroad executives under I. C. C. supervision. Their tendency is to play safe and merely hang on to existing business instead of trying to build new business. Actually business cannot be maintained at a consistent level by that method because a certain percentage of it is lost every year from uncontrollable causes. They cite a comparison of the rail and motor industries in 1910 and 1935 as an example of the results of this static technique as against dynamic initiative.

The better class of holding companies have made it a practice to pass the fruits of experience to all their operating units. The ideas of abler men are shared with those less able and the latter are stirred to emulation. Holding company rewards to operating managers keep them on their toes for new ideas. This spur is lacking when an operating company has no standard to go by except public service regulations. It's claimed that this condition will reduce efficiency—which in turn will bounce back on the public in the form of higher rates necessary to achieve a fair return.

Coalition

William Randolph Hearst hasn't said much yet about this grand alliance between Republicans and conservative Democrats for a Fusion president in '36. But he's very much present behind the scenes. That's why Bainbridge Colby is so active in the movement.

Political realists are confident the sound and fury will come to nothing. They can't see the Republicans falling in line for any Democrat—least of all Al Smith—and they can't see the conservative South going for a Republican. But even though coalition flops a split-off ticket or right wing Democrats might still achieve the desired end.

Yield

Secretary Morgenthau's auction sale of 3 per cent bonds was a success as predicted—but hardly overwhelming. He wasn't swamped with excess subscriptions and the winning bids averaged lower than the previous market price for the same issue. However the yield works out at 2.[illegible] per cent to maturity in 1948—which is certainly nothing to weep about.

CHOLERA IN 1854

The epidemic of cholera that swept through Ohio in the late summer of 1854 was especially in the towns in the northwestern part of the state—the black swamp. The number of cases and deaths were smaller than in the more populous portions but in proportion to population the fatalities there were among the highest.

D. C. W. Peace, who was in the thick of the plague and whose wife died of it, recorded that the previous winter had been one of unusual severity and the spring and early summer had been unusually dry. ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

[illegible] A. [illegible]

[illegible] THIRTY-THREE

[illegible] missal [illegible] minute—" [illegible] that's all [illegible] drowning

Guy's [illegible] voice and Porter's [illegible] "What—What—What's going here? Hey?"

"I want to speak to Miss [illegible] for a minute."

"She's busy. She can't see you," her father's gruffest tone.

"I can wait."

"No need to wait. I tell you my daughter can't see you."

"If you [illegible] alone [illegible] her for one [illegible]"

But Guy was [illegible] "[illegible] Peter [illegible]"

"Explain? Explain what? There's nothing whatever to explain. You came into this house [illegible] yourselves on [illegible] and you won't do [illegible] interrupt me. Most [illegible] Only what [illegible] I suppose, but I can tell you if I was a younger man—"

Alison [illegible] across the hall to where her mother had come down the stairs and was standing at the [illegible] of them, torn by her feeling [illegible] what to do.

"Alison, leave this to me," and to Guy: "Now get out before I send for the police," ordered her father.

Robert was red as a turkey-cock and bristling. Guy looked so white, so haggard and worried that it gave her a fresh shock. He had no hat on and was wearing the same clothes that he had had on when she left him in the street, but now he had a desperate air and he did not give an inch. Disregarding her father he spoke to Alison in a quiet incisive voice.

"I must speak to you."

"What do you want to say?" She glanced apprehensively at Robert, who snorted.

"If you could spare me one minute alone?"

Robert broke in: "I forbid you to do anything of the kind. Go and wait with Daphne and let me deal with this—this—" He choked back the last word, glowering at Guy.

But Alison stood her ground.

"Just a moment, father." And to Guy: "If you've anything to say, I think you'd better say it here."

They had the hall to themselves. Porter, with the discretion of a good servant, had retired, probably to listen from behind the hall door.

"Well?" barked Robert.

"I only want to say this," Guy spoke to Alison. When he stood like that, so near and looking at her, she felt herself weakening. "You've found out, of course, that what I told you wasn't true. I can understand your being angry. But will you believe me when I tell you that I had a perfectly sound reason for not telling the truth? It's rather a long story and I can't tell it to you now—" he glanced quickly at Robert, who stood swelling with barely reined anger, "but can you believe that?"

"I don't know." Alison was honest. Difficult not to believe him when he stood there looking like a penitent schoolboy. "Yet—"

"Could you just try?" There was a faint glimmer of hope in his eyes now.

"Nonsense! Don't listen to the fellow, Alison," her father broke in. "Haven't we heard enough about him?"

"Would you mind telling me, sir, what you have heard?"

Guy's voice was cool, harder than his own.

"I've heard enough to damn you in the eyes of any decent person," Robert flung it at him. "I don't wonder that you're ashamed to use your own name."

"Would you mind being a little more explicit?" Cool and dangerous. The pale blue eyes had a fighting glitter in them now.

Robert snorted like an angry bull.

"Perhaps you'll understand if I tell you that I've heard all about a lady named Trevor," he retorted.

"Ah. May I ask who told you that particular untrue and slanderous story?" Guy seemed unmoved except for a faint hint of menace in his level voice.

"You may. But I'm under no obligation to answer," Robert snapped.

"You didn't hear it by any chance from a Mrs. de Courcy, or she may call herself Poynter?"

"Never heard of her," declared Robert. "Now, if we're done perhaps—"

"Alison?" Guy took a step towards her. "Do you believe that I'm that sort of a person?"

She hesitated desperately, hardly knowing what to say. [illegible] gossip [illegible] when he stood there by her she didn't believe that he was really bad, and yet there was so much that had not been explained.

In her dilemma, while her father made impatient noises and Guy stood there waiting, she seized on something which she herself knew.

"Will you tell me one thing?"

"Anything," He said [illegible].

"That desk was shut when you and I telephoned. You—you didn't open it?" Her eyes appealed, implored him to say no.

"[illegible] But if you'd give me a [illegible] see you alone [illegible] explain [illegible]"

[illegible] Alison has [illegible] even [illegible] be [illegible] any more [illegible] she answered and [illegible] a weight heavy [illegible]

Daphne had a pair of glasses [illegible] and was searching the house. She looked as bored as Alison felt. A sharp rap at the door of the box made her turn.

"Come in."

"[illegible] sitting here and wondered if I [illegible] introduce myself [illegible] remember me, Madame [illegible]" He bowed [illegible] but Daphne held out [illegible] to her eyes.

"Oh, [illegible]" she said warmly. "Alison, I must introduce you. This [illegible] Gomez, my fiancé's [illegible]"

[illegible] to the man [illegible] Daphne in his [illegible] "What's brought you over to [illegible] You don't often desert your own country [illegible] Senor Gomez owns the lovely hotel where [illegible] are going for our honeymoon."

Daphne was going to spend her honeymoon in the hotel belonging to her lover [illegible] must have shown in her face, for she met Senor Gomez's eyes fixed on her with swift interest.

But Daphne noticed nothing, for she rattled on: "Such a delightful spot. You'll love it, Alison. It was originally an old Spanish farmhouse, but Senor Gomez has turned it into the most charming little hotel you ever saw. I don't think I've ever seen anything so attractive. It's only two years since he bought the place, but it's getting quite well known already, isn't it?"

"Oh, I hope so." The man's big velvet dark eyes had not left Alison's face. In his own way he was exceedingly good looking, but the type was not one that appealed to Alison; she thought that he appeared both conceited and effeminate. But now her mind was busy on something else.

"You know the hotel well?" She put the question casually enough to Daphne.

"Oh yes, that's why I'm longing for you to see it," Daphne replied at once.

Alison had the sense of being threatened by an unseen danger, which comes sometimes when a person is moving in the dark. Surely Daphne had said she had not seen the place since she was quite a girl? Yet it now seemed she had been there within two years. What was she playing at, and what part in the game belonged to this slender, smooth-faced, sallow young man?

"You are going there, Madame?" He put that to Daphne, but he was still looking at Alison, gazing at her with an admiration which she found embarrassing.

Boys Decide They Won't Have Time for Toys If They're To Stand Guard at Lake

Boys Are Interested

But I did [illegible] Not for [illegible] would I have disturbed the [illegible] effect Dicky was achieving. I didn't know he possessed such histrionism. There was in his voice just the right mixture of fatherly indulgence, grown-up contempt for childish vagaries and [illegible] adolescent [illegible] to arouse and madden [illegible] of its effects so swiftly [illegible] a miracle to me.

We [illegible] their grown [illegible] the constituent [illegible] simultaneously [illegible] themselves [illegible] Dicky.

There was genuine anguish [illegible] their voices, and Dicky cocked a triumphant eyebrow at me.

"That depends," he said. "You see, if you take on the job of guarding Baby, Faith and Mary and [illegible] Katherine [illegible] it will mean that you'll have to have regular hours. Of course there'll be one man [illegible] guard up there all the time, but he'll have to be relieved at definite times.

Don't Want Toys Now

"Your time to yourself will be cut down materially. Now we want you to enjoy the sports that are up there, the fishing, the rowing, the building of things in the woods, the climbing of the hills, even [illegible] we want you to keep that up.

"But I wonder if you can understand that these things will give you a very full program, and that if you took with you to the cabin the pets and toys you have planned to take you wouldn't have time to do any guard duty at all?"

"Who wants any pets or toys?" Junior said, throwing his shoulders back with a gesture so like his father's that a lump came in my throat even as my lips twitched.

"Here, Mumsy. Let us have our list back, please," Junior said, holding out his hand. I put it in his eager, grubby fingers and he promptly tore it across and then into smaller pieces which he carried across the room and tossed into the waste basket.

"Dad, you'd better tell Jim he needn't bother about that list of livestock," he said next. "Me and Rod—mean Rod and I'll have [illegible] looking after [illegible] going to tend and I can [illegible] lot of pets. Scottie, now, he can help guard, but the rest wouldn't be any good at all."

Errors Aid Downfall

Minus the pitching of its [illegible] hurler Dale Schwaderer the Reformed team was anything but a championship team before the flashy playing of the Calvary combination. Six errors aided the winners to pile up 11 runs on 10 hits. The Reformed team hit seven blows off the deliveries of Gruber relief pitcher in the night game opener.

Ten runs were pounded out by the winners in three innings while three hits gave Reformed its four tallies in the fifth. Errors were costly for the Reformed team in each of the fifth and sixth frames when four runs crossed the plate.

Eight innings were required to settle the second nocturnal battle at Lincoln park as St. Mary took a close game 3 to 2. Ballenger was safe at first when Merchant Trinity's first sacker dropped an easy fly and the St. Mary third baseman came in with the winning run on a fly to the outfield.

Baptists Score First

Trinity scored first in the second inning on a free pass to Weiss and a sacrifice fly by Rice Trinity hurler. St. Mary evened the score in the third when Hogan doubled and came home on Ballenger's fly to the outfield. Both teams were credited with five hits.

The fast Presbyterian team gained a share in the league lead by pounding Johnny Vestal for 16 hits and 11 runs at President field. The Methodists were unable to score off Freddy Vestal until the seventh when two runs were chalked up. Edgington singled and came home ahead of Keller when the Epworth outfield [illegible] a long home run clout. Milt Pohler and Gabby Gallant hit four base blows for the winner.

Lee Street Wins

Although John Clark's Epworth No. 1 nine scored three runs in the first inning Lee Street batsmen pounded out an 8 to 4 victory at Steam Shovel field. [illegible] produced four runs for Lee Street in the fifth. Three walks and three hits evened the score at 3 all in the second frame. Snyder Methodist moundsman issued five passes.

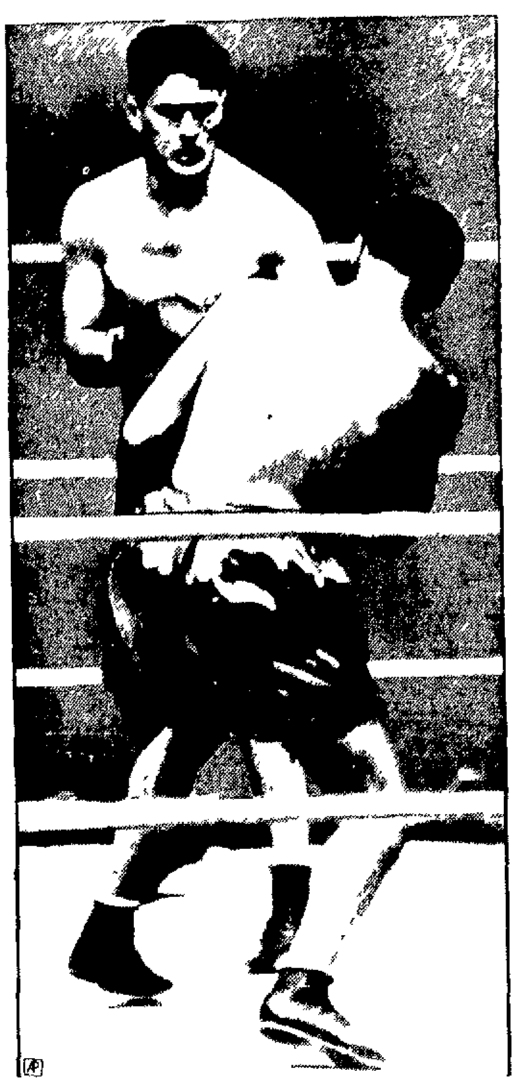
SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights



XIII DEMPSEY VS. TUNNEY—1926

THE championship career of Jack Dempsey, as great a symbol in fight history as was the first great champion, John L. Sullivan, came to an end in the rain of a distressing September night in Philadelphia in 1926.

Scarcely considered formidable by any one but himself and a few friends, Boxer Gene Tunney, who was to Slugger Dempsey what Boxer Corbett was to Slugger Sullivan, stripped the old man mauler of his title by decision in 10 rounds as 118,736 in the huge Sesquicentennial stadium gasped in the downpour and Tex Rickard counted the second greatest gate in fight history, $1,89[illegible].

Dempsey had picked Tunney as his opponent, feeling that under the stress of his personal difficulties at the time plus an absence of three years from the ring he must take the weakest rather than the strongest foe available. He had forgotten that his toughest fight as champion up to that time had been with another superlative boxer, Tommy Gibbons, at Shelby, Mont.

Tunney, master of defense, a punishing, cutting right hand puncher with an artistic left hand, stabbed and battered Dempsey round after round as rain poured down and they sloshed in water that puddled all over the canvas. Right under the gun the imperturbable Tunney, former marine, Shakespearean scholar, a fighting machine moved only by calmness and logic, took his lone gamble.

In the first round he met Dempsey's big charge with a thunderous right hand bolt to the jaw that nearly floored the champion then and there and from which Dempsey never really recovered. Retreating when he had to but pouring in a deadly accurate fire, Tunney had the upper hand through all but one moment of the fight, when Dempsey poured one left hook into his throat hitting him on the Adam's apple.

At the end Dempsey was groggy, his left eye closed, the left side of his face badly smashed. He fumbled his way from the ring announcing his retirement but he came back for another try a year later in Chicago.

Odds Against Olin Dutra Keeping U. S. Golf Crown

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 6.—With the odds and an all star field against him, big Olin Dutra of Los Angeles risked his fame and glory against 1[illegible] challengers today in defense of the National Open golf championship over the hazardous Oakmont course.

Oakmont's mountainous mounds and [illegible] traps, terrifying despite the elimination of [illegible] in addition to [illegible] the [illegible] green [illegible] one [illegible] in the country promised to turn the whole tournament into a steeple chase.

Foreign Foes Enter

Dutra's supremacy, established at Merion in Philadelphia a year ago, is imperilled by the cream of the country's professional golfers, including seven former champions, and with one exception the best of the amateur shotmakers. All [illegible] foreign challenge from [illegible] Africa [illegible] Japan [illegible] multiple Japanese [illegible] the nature of [illegible] international flavor to [illegible] threat [illegible] all the way from [illegible] S. A. [illegible] consideration as a championship [illegible]

A glimpse at the record of past championships [illegible] was held in 1895 shows that in 40 years no [illegible] three players ever have [illegible] repeating, Willie Anderson [illegible] was the first to do it. He kept the title for three years commencing in 1903. J. J. McDermott scored a double in 1911 and 1912, and the unforgettable Bob Jones duplicated the trick in 1929 and 1930.

In [illegible] away [illegible] odds are heavily against [illegible] Dutra [illegible] a fellow can't be blamed for taking heart in the fact that Lawson Little became the first man in 70 years [illegible] British [illegible] championship [illegible] year [illegible] champion [illegible] repeat.

Yesterday's [illegible] downpour interfered with final [illegible] round but was welcomed by the contestants in the sense that it might have a tendency to slow up the [illegible] and [illegible] from kicking off the [illegible] as well as [illegible] to [illegible] from [illegible] greater than eight feet possible [illegible] the greens have been [illegible] make a putt from this distance almost unnegotiable.

Arrayed against Dutra are such dangerous [illegible] as Gene Sarazen, twice former winner of the crown and 4 to 1 betting favorite over the defending title holder, who with Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Craig Wood, the betting [illegible] N. J. are 8 to 1 [illegible]

WHITEHEAD DEFEATED FOR FIRST TIME, 2-0 AS SOX FAIL TO HIT

St. Louis Hurler Allows Two Blows, Indians Lose Play To Tie

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

[illegible] brilliant [illegible] pitcher [illegible] the two major [illegible] defeat [illegible] at least one of them [illegible] John Whitehead of the White Sox has shown signs of greatness even while losing.

The 2[illegible] year-old recruit from the Texas League who won his first eight major league starts lost to the Browns yesterday more because his teammates couldn't get him any runs than because of his own shortcomings.

Knott Allows Two Hits

Whitehead pitched a seven hit game and granted only two walks but lost it 2 to 0 when Jack Knott, another Texan who has performed mostly in relief roles, came through with a two-hit masterpiece. Ed Coleman brought in one run with an infield out and another with a homer.

It was a different matter with Vito Tamulis, little Lithuanian lefthander of the Yankees who had run up five straight victories. Wild from the start he left the game in the fourth with the count 3-1 against him and the bases full. Bob Johnson welcomed the arrival of Johnny Murphy by belting his thirteenth homer of the season to clear the sacks and decide the game for the Athletics, who won 9-7.

To round out a bad day for the leaders, the second place Cleveland Indians came out on the short end of a 5-4 score when Tommy Bridges' ninth inning double won his own game for the Detroit Tigers. Darkness halted a second game after the sixth with the count 4 to 4.

Washington went 10 innings to beat the Red Sox 5-4 and end an eight game losing streak. Lefty Grove walked in the deciding run.

In the National League the Cubs beat Cincinnati 5 to 2 as homers by Chuck Klein and Ken O'Dea helped decide a mound duel between Larry French and Gene Schott. That put them closer to the league-leading Giants, who divided a bargain bill with the Phillies, and to the Cardinals and Pirates, whose game was rained out [illegible]

Fred Fitzsimmons had stuff and Dolph Camilli's eighth homer gave the Phils enough runs in the first inning to take the opener from the Giants 4 to 3, but the league leaders had little difficulty winning the second [illegible] to 4.

Brooklyn and Boston also split a doubleheader, the Dodgers taking the opener 3 to 0 on Van Mungo's five-hit pitching and the Braves the afterpiece 10 to 2 on the combination of seven hit flinging by Fred Frankhouse and a 15 hit assault on George Earnshaw and Johnny Babich.

Dizzy Dean "On The Spot" as Top Card, League Hurler

The question [illegible]

He [illegible] has gotten away [illegible] percentage [illegible] to the pitching average [illegible] talked himself [illegible] to his ears with [illegible] teammates and a [illegible] of the baseball [illegible]

He has [illegible] suspension for [illegible] Manager [illegible] in the box [illegible] the Cardinal [illegible] day's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates here and [illegible] criticism of his bosses and teammates.

Strictly speaking Dean was [illegible] as well as [illegible] from the standpoint of pitching reputation [illegible] of Dizzy's public remarks [illegible] Frisch said no disciplinary action had yet been taken as an outgrowth of the recent quarrel between Dean and Joe Medwick.

The Cardinal pilot said he would await further developments and give Dean a fair chance to buckle down and attend to business.

Frisch as well as most of those connected with the Cardinals discount talk that Dizzy may be traded as a consequence of his latest outburst, including sharp criticism of his teammates, accusations of jealousy and the prediction that the New York Giants should win the National League race in a breeze.

Up To Diz, Frisch Says

"Dean will stick and he will pitch," said Frisch. "He will be all right as soon as he remembers that his job is to go out there and give the best he's got at all times when he is in the box. He can't talk himself into winning ball games for us. Or talk himself out of losing them when he makes mistakes. It's up to him now to prove he can take it and come back."

MAJOR LEAGUE ACE BATSMEN HIT SLUMP

Massacre Year for Big Shot Averages Seen Unless 1935 Hitting Improves

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 6.—If it keeps up 1935 will be known in major league baseball as the massacre year of big shot batting averages.

How come and why not even the victims themselves can say. The general slump of the batting stars is one of the game's greatest mysteries.

A checkup today showed that out of the 20 batting leaders of the 1934 season, 10 in each of the major circuits, only seven were batting above the .300 mark as the season entered the eighth week of play. So great was the general decline in their batting averages that as a group they were batting 1.009 points less than they were at the conclusion of last year's campaign. In the American League they were [illegible] 116 points per man. In the National League the decline averaged 56.3.

Only three of last year's leaders had batting averages in excess of last year's marks. They were Joe Vosmik of Cleveland, who is batting .348 today as compared with his final mark of .341 last year; Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics, a .334 batter last year and now a .356 batter, and Arkie Vaughan of Pittsburgh, who is batting .399 today or 66 points higher than his 1934 mark.

Lou Gehrig of the Yankees won the American League batting championship last year with a rousing average of .363. But today his average stood at .275. Paul Waner, National League batting champion last year at .362, was batting .304. Al Simmons of the White Sox was another noted victim, batting only .252 with a third place team today as compared with a finishing mark of .311 with a last place club in '34. And so it went down the line of the batting greats, with Sam [illegible]on Pool of the Cincinnati Reds the greatest sufferer of them all. Pool batted .377 for the Reds last year. Today his average was .175. The average of Pinky Higgins of the Athletics was off from .330 to .211.

BAER TRAINING CA[illegible] ENJOYS ATMOSPH[illegible] OF INSANE ASYL[illegible]

Champion, Brown as B[illegible] Cuffed in Sparring S[illegible] He'll Be Vicious

By The Associated Press

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—The training camp of [illegible] is the same old merry [illegible] beautiful bit of seaside [illegible] with the atmosphere of [illegible] asylum.

Baer stands around [illegible] sun in his training ring [illegible] laughing, clowning [illegible] sparring partners hit him [illegible] doing nothing of an offensive nature in rebuttal.

Baer Gets Cuffed

His trainers shout [illegible] paralyzingly from outside [illegible] The spectators revile him [illegible] placidly along his way [illegible] some 217 pound figure of [illegible] a little heavy, a [illegible] but brown as a hickory [illegible]

Baer's manager [illegible] worrie[illegible] more about [illegible] Buddy Baer, Max's [illegible] goes in his workouts [illegible] about the heavyweight title defense against Jim [illegible]dock a week from tonight.

Baer looks like the [illegible] partner. He gets cuffed [illegible] and all his sparring [illegible] look like heavyweight [illegible] Any one who wants to [illegible] take a shot can hit him [illegible] right hand.

A lot of it is a part [illegible] ballyhoo devised to run [illegible] as one means of making [illegible] look more formidable. The Irishman, with a 15 round [illegible] over Art Lasky as his real [illegible] weight record, is at best a [illegible] shot. Something must be [illegible] make prospective customers believe that Jimmy has a [illegible] thus providing them a reason [illegible] attending the final festiv[illegible]

Says He's Clowning

It's all reminiscent of [illegible] seaside resort a year ago [illegible] Baer training for his cha[illegible] Primo Carnera and the [illegible] weight title performed in [illegible] the same manner—so sim[illegible] fact that Bill Brown, New [illegible] state athletic comm[illegible] wanted to call off that ma[illegible]

Baer wore himself out [illegible] Carnera down but won the [illegible]pionship on a technical [illegible] in 11 round[illegible]

"I'm clowning here," [illegible]plains Baer, "but I'll be the [illegible] vicious guy as I was a [illegible] when I get in there w[illegible] dock. I'll flatten him as [illegible] can. If I cut him I'll [illegible] up until I've got him [illegible]"

FOXX ON FIRST

Connie Mack To Leave Slugger There Jimmy Asks Shift

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK June 6 — Another big 1935 baseball experiment apparently has been tossed out of the window

Jimmy Foxx is back on first base for the Athletics after five weeks of valiant toiling behind the bat and Connie Mack silver-haired leader of the Philadelphia team talks as if he were going to keep him there

Connie Mack says he took the mask and shin guards off Foxx because the disappointing Athletics were going so badly he felt he must do some shuffling to shake the jinx but it is more or less of an open secret that Jimmy asked for the transfer

I didn't think we had our strongest team on the field with Jimmy on first said Mack because young Lew Finney plays a better first base than Foxx and now he must sit on the bench He is too good a hitter to sit on the bench We lost that much power

VEGETABLE, FLOWER PLANTS ARE TAXABLE

State Levy Must Be Collected on Sales County Examiner Advises

All persons selling vegetable and flower plants must collect the state sales tax on their sales, Floyd Cornely, Marion county sales tax examiner, announced today in an effort to clean an apparent misunderstanding regarding the status of plants.

Even if farmers sell the plants on their own farms they must have a vendor's license and collect the tax, Mr. Cornely said.

The only exception, he said, is when plants are sold to farmers. In these instances the seller must obtain from the farmer a signed statement that the plants are to be used in the operation of his farm, which must consist of three or more acres.

To clear another apparent misunderstanding Mr. Cornely said that holders of vendors' licenses must continue to keep records of their sales as required by the tax commission regardless of whether their volume of business was large enough to require them to fill out information returns taken by the commission last month.

ministrator said there would be no attempt to enforce present milk licenses in many cases He conceded that the ruling against the constitutionality of the blue eagle had taken the heart out of the administration's milk program

Davis said he believed the powers which would be conferred by the newly proposed AAA amendments would be explicit enough to avoid supreme court criticism on the grounds that they constituted too broad a delegation of legislative authority But he said the AAA's field of influence was limited clearly to interstate milk markets

Wants No Tax Suits

Davis said the courts should be closed to tax suits in event the processing taxes are held invalid because these taxes have been passed on by the processors to others and we do not think it right that a man should recover a tax which he did not pay out of his own pocket

Secretary Wallace expressed belief at a press conference yesterday that the voluntary adjustment programs into which producers have entered were not in the path of the Schechter case decision and in no event could there be any question of the government's ability to fulfill its contracts with the farmers

Nevertheless he said we are taking advantage of the decision to seek perfections in the law which will make certain the government's authority to continue processing tax rates in accordance with amended provisions of the act

Country Without Cabinet for Second Day, Gold Withdrawals Seen

(Copyright 1935 by The Associated Press)

PARIS June 6 The threat of disorders and renewed gold withdrawals disturbed France today—the second successive day she has been without a government

Francois Pietri former minister of the navy turned to the baffling task of creating a cabinet powerful enough to defend the franc and capable of winning support in the chamber of deputies

Known as a financial expert a protege of Joseph Caillaux and an accomplished swordsman the Corsican Pietri was President Albert Lebrun's fifth choice for the premiership

Previously Fernand Bouisson former president of the chamber Jules Jeanneney president of the senate Pierre Laval foreign minister in three previous cabinets and Former Premier Edouard Herriot leader of the strong radical socialist body were invited to accept the mission of releasing the nation from its political impasse

Jeanneney Herriott and Bouisson all declined to assume the task Bouisson previously succeeded in forming a ministry to succeed that of Former Premier Pierre Etienne Flandin But the chamber defeated his government on the same issue which caused Flandin's downfall

Laval twice refused before he finally was persuaded to make the effort Then he failed explaining to President LeBrun he had been unable to find sufficient suitable men to occupy the cabinet posts

OSSINING N Y June 6—Edwin [illegible] Sing Sing prison's [illegible] who returned to freedom today and prepared to earn [illegible] as a prison developed [illegible] baseball player

Despite a [illegible] excluding him from organized baseball Pitts boarded a train at Ossining N Y to Albany to report to Johnny Evers who gave him a contract to play with the Albany team of the International league

W G Bramham of Durham N C president of the National association of minor professional baseball leagues issued an edict against Pitts as detrimental to the game But the widespread protests over the ruling have encouraged the 25 year old Pitts to hope that it will be rescinded

Warden Lewis E Lawes of Sing Sing today wired Bramham an appeal to change his decision assuring him that he would not have barred Pitts had he known the facts of the case Before Pitts left the prison Lawes told him that Judge Franklin Taylor of Kings county (Brooklyn) who sentenced Pitts had telegraphed the prison his wishes for the released prisoner's success

I'm going to report to Johnny Evers this afternoon said Pitts I haven't heard from him I'm not wanted I turned down two other baseball jobs today—one from the House of David team the other from a professional team in Dayton O

Pitts 25 became nationally famous as Sing Sing's all around athlete He was a star backfield man on the football team a hard hitting outfielder on the baseball team and a track man Too he was something of a star of the prison's theatricals and curator of the zoo

He was sentenced from New York City March 26 1930 convicted of second degree robbery when only 19 His sentence 8 to 16 years was reduced by one third for good behavior

SKELETON NRA TO BE EXTENDED ONE YEAR

extraordinary session of the American Federation of Labor council called as a result of NRA's downfall Expressions of extreme concern over the scrapping of the codes with their collective bargaining provisions had come from the union leaders

They planned a strenuous effort to obtain passage of labor legislation now pending including the Wagner labor relations bill the 30-hour week bill and the Guffey Snyder bill to regulate the bituminous coal industry with a little NRA

Snell Criticizes Plan

From Rep Snell Republican of New York minority leader in the house came criticism of the President's stopgap plan Declaring it was more in the line of a complete surrender than you would expect from the present occupant of the White House he added

It seems to me that if the NRA had so many redeeming features as its supporters and propagandists have told the American people it had that it is certainly surprising to have it abandoned without any effort whatsoever at preserving those parts of it that are admitted to be of benefit to the people and probably could be taken care of within the limits of the supreme court decision

Meanwhile Donald R Richberg's career with the government as previously predicted appeared to be drawing to a close Leaving the White House last night he said he did not expect to hear [illegible] on NRA

The report that the [illegible] was considering taxes [illegible] came as a surprise to [illegible] They had [illegible] of it prior to [illegible] conference Tuesday [illegible] about NRA Certain [illegible] said that in the conference the President made a [illegible] Chairman Harrison Democrat [illegible] of the senate finance committee and Doughton of North Carolina of the house ways and means committee [illegible] after he had discussed with them

Referred to Inheritance

Sharp ears caught [illegible] though the President [illegible] to [illegible] gain among questions [illegible] meeting were [illegible] inheritance and gift [illegible] what the President [illegible]

They recalled that [illegible] plan already had been [illegible] to the senate finance [illegible] Secretary Morgenthau [illegible] he was talking about [illegible] to pay the bonus

At present [illegible] estate taxed The new proposal [illegible] to impose an inheritance [illegible] top of that The estate [illegible] brings in around [illegible]

A further disclosure [illegible] that the skeleton NRA [illegible] ed by the administration [illegible] have another function he [illegible] already made known [illegible] semble data in an attempt [illegible] that intra state industry [illegible] inter state business
